COVID-19 Health Care Response Training

Implementation Guidelines

Project HOPE and the Center for Human Rights and Humanitarian Studies at the Watson Institute of Brown University have partnered to deliver a COVID-19 training program for health workers responding to the growing pandemic. In order to maximize access to this training during the COVID-19 pandemic, Project HOPE is providing the training materials to trusted partners who can lead dissemination within their own professional networks.

The trainings are released under Creative Commons license Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International (CC BY-NC-ND 4.0). See https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/ for details. Copyright and logos may not be removed/added or alterations made to the text or images within the modules or supporting documents without express written consent from Project HOPE.

Guidelines for training implementation:

- Instructors must have experience in the subject matter of each module (e.g. infectious disease, public health, risk communications) and be up to date in the latest science, medical, and policy topics surrounding COVID-19.

- Instructors must complete post-training questionnaire.

- Institutions delivering the training must provide a point of contact to ensure the latest modules are available to all ongoing training programs. Project HOPE and Brown University endeavor to regularly update the content to reflect the latest COVID-19 science and feedback from partners.

- All third parties who deliver this training must report their intent to participate to covid19training@projecthope.org.

If you have questions, please contact us at covid19training@projecthope.org.